

STEP ONE

HOW TO GET WHERE YOU'RE GOING

IF YOU'RE FEELING A TAD NERVOUS AS YOU DIVE INTO THIS BOOK, WE TOTALLY understand—and we think it's a good sign. Many performers say having nerves before hitting the stage indicates they still care about their craft and their audience. If they're not nervous, they're not fully invested in doing or being their best. Superstars know how to push through the fear, using that energy to fuel their performance rather than weaken it. The same applies here, don't you think? It would be odd not to feel some fear as you explore your calling and shine your light.

When Spirit first delivered their instructions for Infinite Purpose, revealing our roles as messengers of these teachings, Lori and I were awestruck, elated, and scared to pieces. Were we crazy to attach our names to content we'd never read? Would we come off as insane or pretentious or misguided? Was it irresponsible to set aside our workloads and devote so much energy to a project we knew next to nothing about?

Every time we'd spin our wheels, obsessing about what might go wrong, we'd always wind up here: we couldn't say no to something that felt so meaningful, so inspired, and so deeply needed. So we said yes—and it changed our lives for good.

Once we traded in fear for faith, we got so many signs that we were on the right path. For instance, when Spirit provided the exact date we were supposed to launch the original online program, we were shocked: we'd already planned to be together in New York City on that day, enjoying a girls' weekend that my husband had planned months before as a fortieth birthday present. Every stroke of synchronicity served as a reminder that we were part of something so much bigger than ourselves—something not to be afraid of, but to be in awe of.

Step One of Infinite Purpose invites you into a brand new world, with Spirit lovingly leading the way. So, tell your fear to take a hike. You're here because you're ready.

MESSAGE FROM SPIRIT

AND SO WE BEGIN. WE COMMEND YOU FOR ANSWERING THE CALL, FOR allowing yourself to be pulled into the unknown and trusting it will lead you Home. Indeed, it will. We will help.

We are a conglomerate of celestial guides—spiritual beings without form. We have walked in your shoes and down your roads before and know firsthand the weight of the world you live in. For centuries, we remained deeply connected and committed to our souls' missions, to God's vision for our lives there and elsewhere, because we could feel the blessing of being chosen, of being silently ordained as messengers and meaning-makers. We now do our work from beyond the physical realm.

We have been given the clear vision of Creation, of All That Is Good, for each and every one of you, granted access to your divinely inspired path and the possibilities it holds so that we might impart wisdom that both eases and accelerates your journey to purpose. Each of you has been called to these teachings because you have been chosen, explicitly, to carry out missions of light during your time on Earth.

You have felt this, yes? Even if ever so fleeting, you have had notions of being needed, feeling blessed with something you could not quite put your finger on, seeing what others could not or would not see, feeling and absorbing the energy of this time and place, and sometimes feeling alone in your hopefulness while the masses drunkenly drown in their misery. You are also part of a conglomerate of spiritual beings; specifically, a growing population of earthbound souls ready to realize their full potential, individually and collectively.

When we speak of potential, we are solely focused on all that matters: the
